Another contributing factor is that many young people want to earn higher incomes. In some companies, employees may receive low salaries or have limited opportunities for promotion. Moreover, successful business owners can sometimes earn much more money than regular workers. Therefore, many young people believe that starting their own businesses can help them improve their financial situation more quickly.

A further reason is that the development of technology and social media has made business easier. Young people can now sell products or advertise services through online platforms with lower costs. ### TASK 02

Deforestation has become a serious environmental issue in many parts of the world. As large areas of forest are being cut down every year, this practice is causing significant damage to the environment and human life.

Write an essay to discuss the effects of deforestation. Include reasons and any relevant examples to support your answer. You should write at least 250 words. Your response will be evaluated in terms of Task fulfillment, Organization, Vocabulary, and Grammar.

In recent years, deforestation has become a growing concern in many parts of the world. This issue affects both individuals and society in different ways. This essay will discuss the main effects of this problem.

One major effect is that forest destruction causes serious damage to the environment and biodiversity. In fact, many forests are natural habitats for animals and plants, so cutting down trees destroys their living environment. In addition, some species may gradually disappear because they cannot survive without forests or find enough food and shelter. As a result, ecosystems become weaker and biodiversity is reduced in many areas around the world.

Another serious impact is that the loss of forests contributes to climate change and natural disasters. The main reason is that trees help absorb carbon dioxide and control temperatures in the environment. However, when forests are destroyed, more greenhouse gases remain in the atmosphere and global warming becomes more serious. Consequently, many countries may experience floods, droughts, storms, and soil erosion more frequently than before.

A further consequence is that the removal of forests negatively affects human life. This is because many local people depend on forests for food, water, medicine, and income in their daily lives. Moreover, environmental damage caused by deforestation can reduce farming productivity and worsen living conditions in these areas. Therefore, many people may face financial difficulties, unemployment, and health problems in the future.

In conclusion, this environmental issue leads to several negative effects on both individuals and society. These impacts can affect many areas of life in different ways. Therefore, it is important to pay more attention to this issue in the future.

In today's globalized world, language education plays a key role in helping people communicate, work, and study across borders. However, in many countries, language learning is still limited or ineffective.

Write an essay to suggest measures that can be taken to promote language education.

Include reasons and any relevant examples to support your answer. You should write at least 250 words. Your response will be evaluated in terms of Task fulfillment, Organization, Vocabulary, and Grammar.

In recent years, promoting language education has become increasingly important in modern society. Many people believe that more effective actions are needed in this area. This essay will suggest several practical measures to improve the situation.

One effective solution is to improve language teaching methods in schools. Teachers should use more interactive activities such as games, group discussions, and speaking practice in class instead of focusing only on grammar exercises. In addition, students should be encouraged to use the language in real communication during lessons and daily activities. As a result, students may become more interested in language learning.

Another possible measure is to increase access to language learning resources. Schools and governments can provide more books, online materials, videos, and language learning applications for students. Moreover, free or low-cost language courses can help people from low-income families have better opportunities to learn foreign languages. Consequently, more students and adults may be able to study languages more easily.

A further approach is to create more opportunities for people to practise foreign languages in daily life. Schools can organize language clubs, cultural exchange programs, or speaking competitions for students on a regular basis. For example, learners can communicate with foreign teachers or international students through these activities and improve their speaking confidence. Therefore, people may become more confident, develop better communication skills, and use foreign languages more naturally in real situations.

In conclusion, several practical measures can help improve this situation effectively. These solutions can bring positive changes for both individuals and society. Therefore, it is important to take suitable actions in the future.
